Try to assess havocanddetente.com with more circumspection and less jamming. The writing is an approach to prayer and can't be steered. The Eliot piece proves a common reading may be rife with error. The Beatitudes piece could have jumped started a thesis and points out a bottomless topic may be more bottomless than we thought. I had a scrap with the police and went after them in the trilogy with chagrin on every page. Mother Nature took the wheel, "He who exalts himself shall be humbled." Taking out the trash in Humpty's bomb factory? A fine, final arrest and I didn't write it. Premonitions seeks to understand the ununderstandable from the ground truth of the cell and its underlying molecular biology. It's looking circumspectly at immortality, limitations notwithstanding, contradictions aside. Too many overt mistakes caused by zero reticence at intruding with material I would never, for cause, touch. Prayer held close to the heart does not admit jamming.
